Pope continues 'mercy' initiative with visit to centre for the blind

(Vatican Radio) Pope Francis on Friday visited a Rome institute for blind people, continuing what he called his 'Mercy Friday' initiatives during the recent Jubilee year.

The institute, situated close to the Vatican, cares for 37 adults and elderly residents and offers services to a further 50 children with impaired sight who use it as a day care facility.

A note from the Vatican said that besides meeting with medical staff, volunteers and residents, Pope Francis offered a donation and signed a visitor's book in the centre's chapel.

Pope Francis: "Mercy Friday" visit to Ostia housing project

Vatican Radio, May 19, 2017

(Vatican Radio) Pope Francis is continuing his "Mercy Friday" activities. Begun during the 2015-2016 Extraordinary Jubilee Year of Mercy, the Mercy Fridays see the Holy Father engaged in specific corporal and spiritual works of mercy.

A communiqué from the Press Office of the Holy See explains that the Pope on this Friday made a visit to public housing projects in the parish of Stella Maris – Star of the Sea parish – in the coastal town of Ostia on the outskirts of Rome.

The communiqué goes on to explain that the Holy Father was to bless the abodes of the parishioners in the complex located at Piazza Francesco Conteduca, 11, just as the parish priest does traditionally each year during Eastertide.
